This book is dedicated to Mr. Haines Turner--

Introduction: Believe it or not, we bring you another episode in that unfolding drama of rumor, ill-founded hearsay, and telltale gossip--in other words the truth as we know it. And what will you find--that kids are doing more unbelievable things than you ever figured. Do the "Believability Scale" (next two pages) yourself & compare your score to theirs (the number proceeding their name). No wonder the ozone layer is thinning--kids are eating their bread butter side down, hanging out inside water towers, & making Beastie Boy sounds. And that's just the tip of the ol' iceberg; in these pages you'll find things you never believed possible. Like (critically ill) Timothy Leary's internet rap/erotica.... Or Manuel Noriega's further musings on the truth.... Or, our long time cohort, Jim Bakker's spiritual guidance.... Or four years of Woody Allen submissions.... But, and perhaps, most importantly, you'll find what almost 200 young people bring to their visions--a quirky, human, funny, heartfelt picture of life as a kid.

Yes, you too can play our little game. This book is arranged by the score of each participant on the scale--lowest to highest. Scores range from 37 to 181. Won't you be surprised to discover you've lived a sheltered, overly cautious, middle class existence--that, in fact, the average 9 year old is out there doing more exciting things than you? Believe it or not!

Harmony Yearbook Believability Scale.

Dear Yearbook Staff,

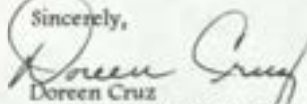

Thank you for your letter telling us about Harmony School and inviting Mrs. Craig to participate in your school yearbook. It sounds as though your school, students and your "yearbook" are all wonderfully individual.

On behalf of Jenny Craig, I am happy to enclose an autographed photo and the following quotation from her:

"53 million Americans are obese. One in four adolescents are obese.
Remember, nothing tastes as good as being trim feels!"

We hope these will be helpful towards a successful school yearbook. Good luck with your efforts.

Sincerely,

Jim Bakker: Year 5 & Counting

Greetings Harmony Students,

Believe it or not, I've been invited to be a part of your wonderfully zany and creative yearbook again!

Several years ago while sitting in a prison cell, I opened the first letter from Harmony School. I could not believe anyone would want me to write for their school yearbook as I felt like a complete social outcast. At this present time of my life, I am writing a book about my prison years. The part that Harmony School played in my self-worth and healing will be described in the pages of this book.

One of my goals is to meet Marty Belcher, Educator extraordinaire, and the creative people who keep turning out this yearbook. Be thankful you are a part of a school that teaches truth and tolerance, and encourages self-expression. Never fear truth or information. Fear only those who would keep us from listening to each other and who would keep us from searching for truth and following our dreams. But always remember half-truth is as dangerous as a lie, or maybe more so.

Your yearbook theme, again, intrigued me this year. Did you know God says, "Believe it or not?" He says we can live forever if we believe. Wow! That sound like a good deal, doesn't it? What do we have to believe? That Jesus Christ is the Son of God. This means we believe Jesus Christ was born of the Virgin Mary and He died on a cross for our sins and rose from the dead.

Let me show you the scripture where God's Word says, "Believe it or not." John 3:18 (Use New King James or Catholic Bible.) "He that believes on Him is not condemned; but he that believes not is condemned already because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." So we do not have to do anything to be condemned of God, but to live with God forever we must believe that the Lord Jesus Christ is the Son of God.

As far as I'm concerned, this is the most important "Believe It Or Not" in all the world. Can you believe that Jesus Christ loves you so much that He died for you? It is up to you to "Believe it or not."

I love you all.

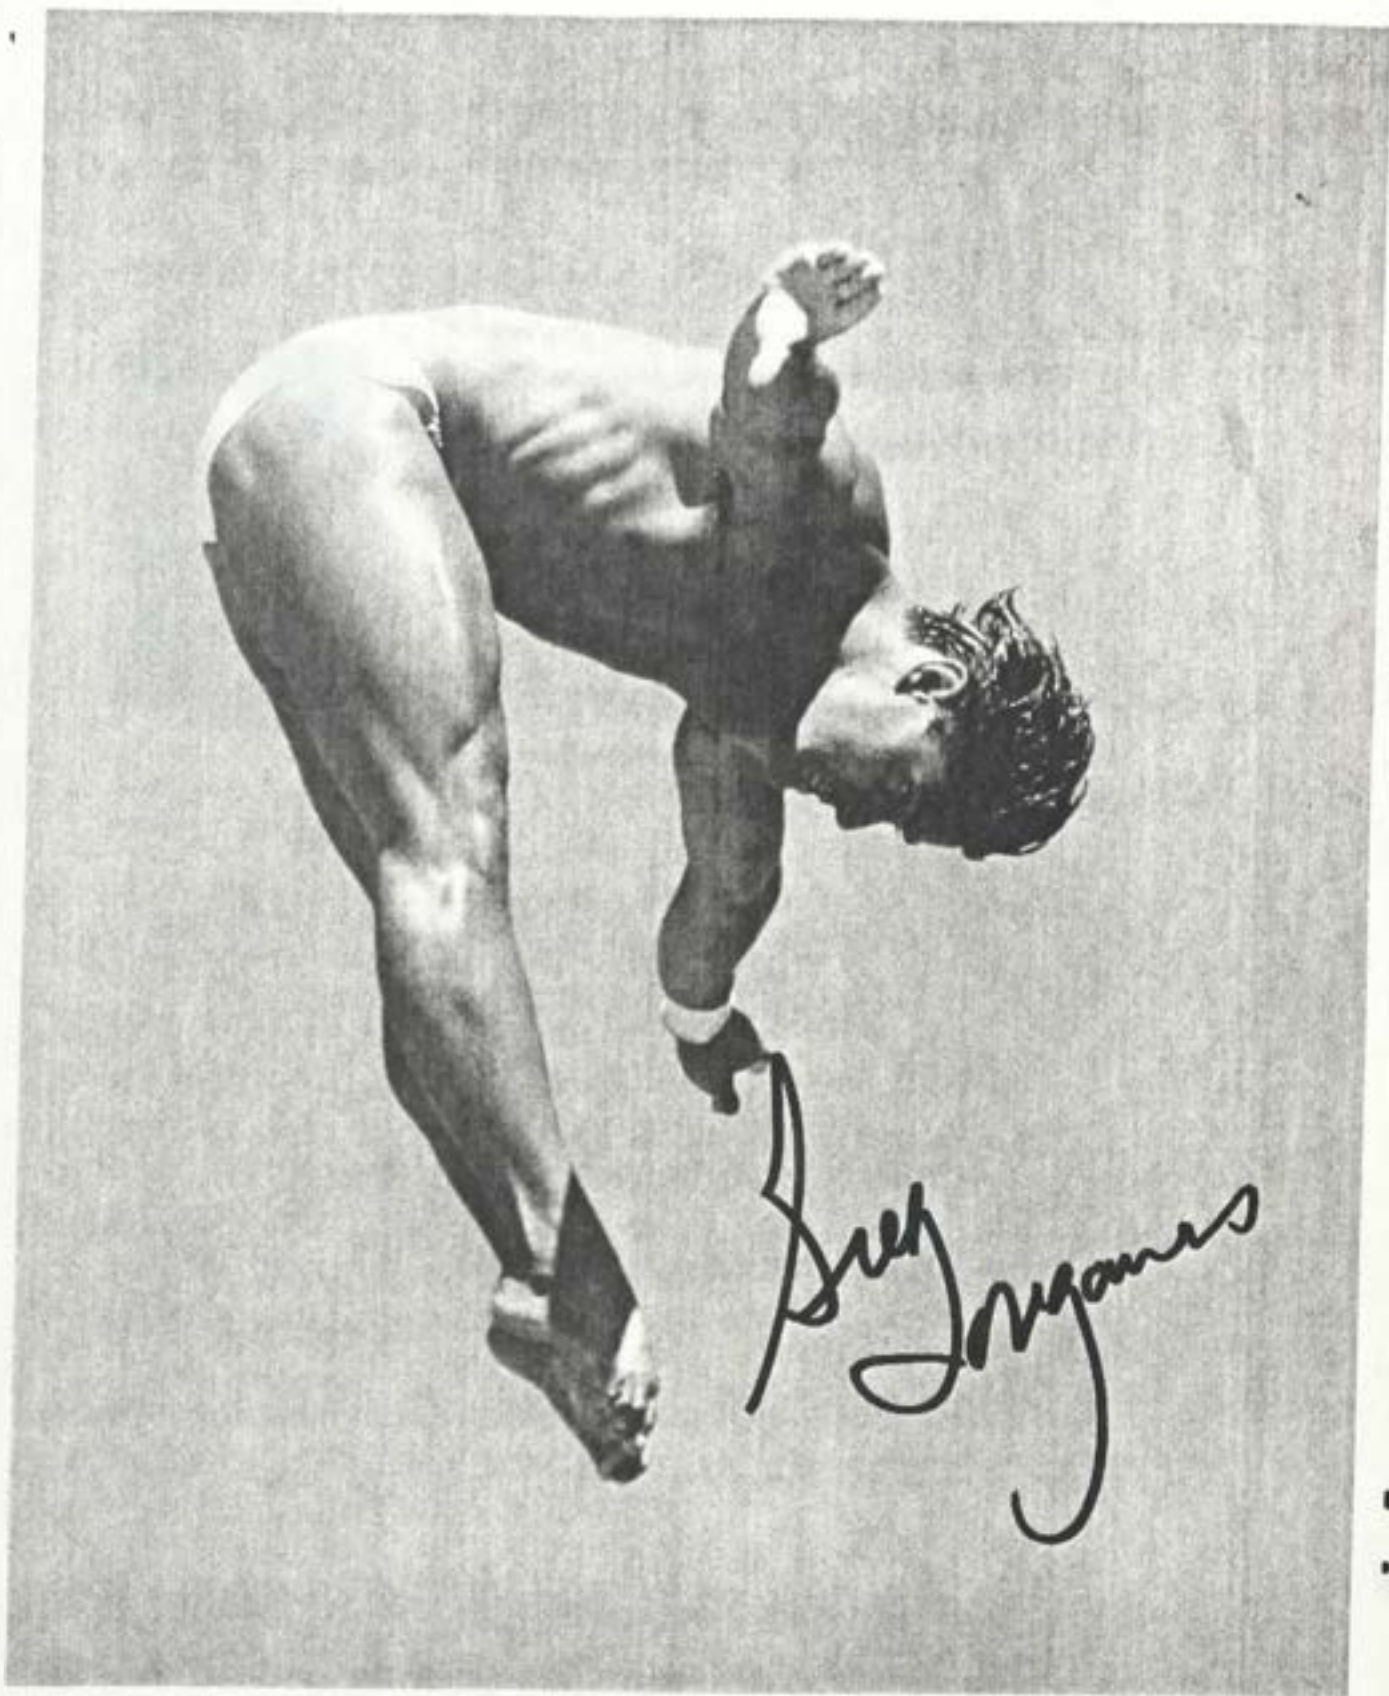

Your friend,

Jim Bakker

Thomas Goller--44

Believe it or not, when I was five, I beat my older brother and dad at chess.

I am seven years old. I have a mom and a dad and two brothers and one sister and my name is Thomas. So, Franz, my dad, Maria, Benny and I were driving to school. There is a hill to drive up before you can get onto the main road. So, we were driving up the hill and we saw that there had been a car accident. Then another car came driving down the hill and the woman in the car slammed her foot on the brakes. I don't know why the woman did that and when she did that, the car skidded across the road and hit our car and so we had a car accident. The sheriff from the other car accident came over. Maria had a bruise on her head and Benny had a black eye and my dad, I don't really know if anything happened to him. And I had seatbelt marks. Maria was crying. Franz tried to stop her, but he couldn't. Then the sheriff gave her a deputy bear and then she stopped crying. Then the ambulance came. A man in the ambulance came out and gave us neck braces. They carried us into the ambulances. Benny and I were in one and Franz and Maria were in the other. We drove to the emergency room. We got something on our bruises and Benny got something on his eye and then we got to go home.

My name is Gena. In the past five years, I've had very bad luck. (Sniffle) First my grandparent's cat, Grasshopper, died. Then my cat, Dreamsickle, died. Then my grandpa died, so it is so, so, so sad. And now my dog has a tumor, (I think), on his eye, so he, my dog Flame, has to have surgery. My birthday is June 1st. I have one sister. Her name is Kaitlin. She is twelve. She was born on a door knob. This Spring Break, me and my friend, Shahana, spent a lot of time together. At Shahana's house we rode bikes and went to Bob Evans with her grandfather. At my house, we annoyed my sister. Shahana's grandfather is really nice. He bought Shahana three packs of gum. He bought Shahana and Shahana's sisters a book. He bought Shahana and the next older sister dresses.

Believe it or not, my imagination is crazy and I see it a bit, from all of its sides, left, right, front, and back. All sorts of things pop up like as in The Box Jack. The paper-upper objects popping up all night and day, are all sorts of word numbers, puzzles and games to play.

Aggravation, rehabilitation.

Aggravation, this is how you play:

First you take a bowling ball,

then you roll it down the hall.

Hit your dad, make him mad.

Oh, oh, oh, oh!

Aggravation, rehabilitation.

Aggravation, this is how you play:

First you take a plastic bag,

then you put it on your head.

Go to bed, wake up dead.

Oh, oh, oh, oh!

Aggravation, rehabilitation.

Aggravation, this is how you play:

First you take a rubber hose,

then you stick it up your nose.

Turn it on, then your gone.

Oh,oh,oh,oh!

Aggravation, rehabilitation.

Aggravation, this is how you play:

First you take some acid rain,

then you drip it on your brain.

Go insane, from the rain.

Oh, oh, oh, oh!

Aggravation, rehabilitation.

Aggravation, this is how you play:

First you take a slimy frog,

then you give it to your dog.

Take a seat, watch him eat.

Oh, oh, oh, oh!

Aggravation, rehabilitation.

Aggravation, this is how it ends.

Child of Innocence

Child of innocence, I miss your sunny days
We joyously frolicked in extended play
Ever since you've left the scene
The streets are lonely, dark and mean

Child of innocence, return to me now
With your simple smile show them how
This world once again can respond to your glance
And heartbeats flutter to the rhythm of your dance

Child of innocence, your elegance, your beauty
Beckons me now beyond the call of duty
Come fly with me far and above
Over mountains in the land of love

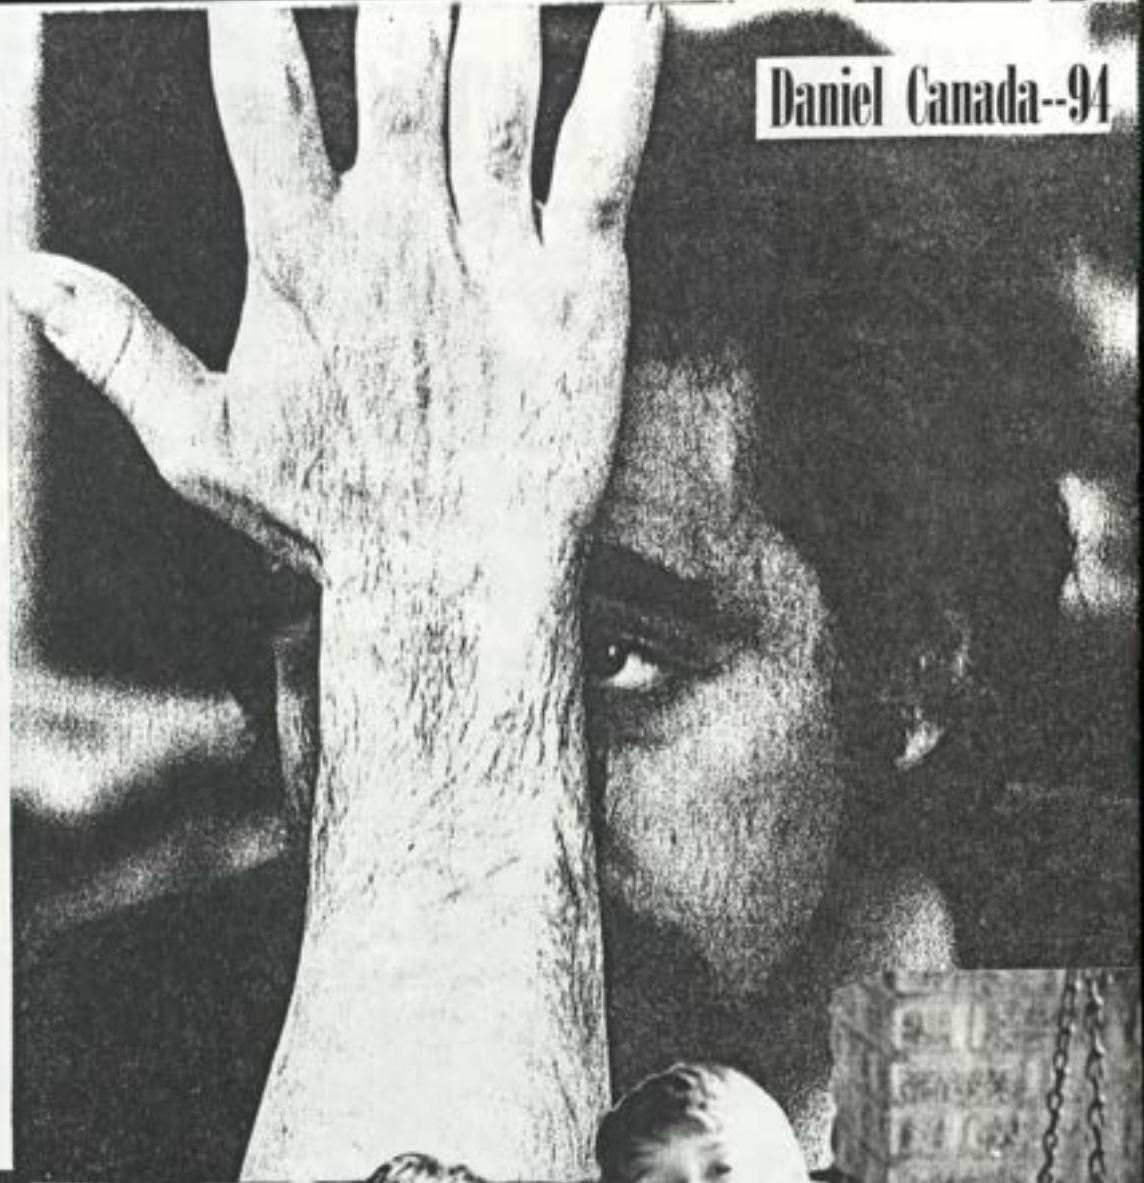

Child of innocence, messenger of joy
You've touched my heart without a play
My soul is ablaze with a flagrant fire
To change this world is my deepest desire

Bang your Head

Hey little devil that dwells inside this angel's body, this angel's mind he said, "all I need is Jesus to fly"
take a little peek through that head of hair
I know some where there are eyes in there trying to hide a heart that's shining, so bright

they said "what makes you different from us"
we're gonna bang your head, down

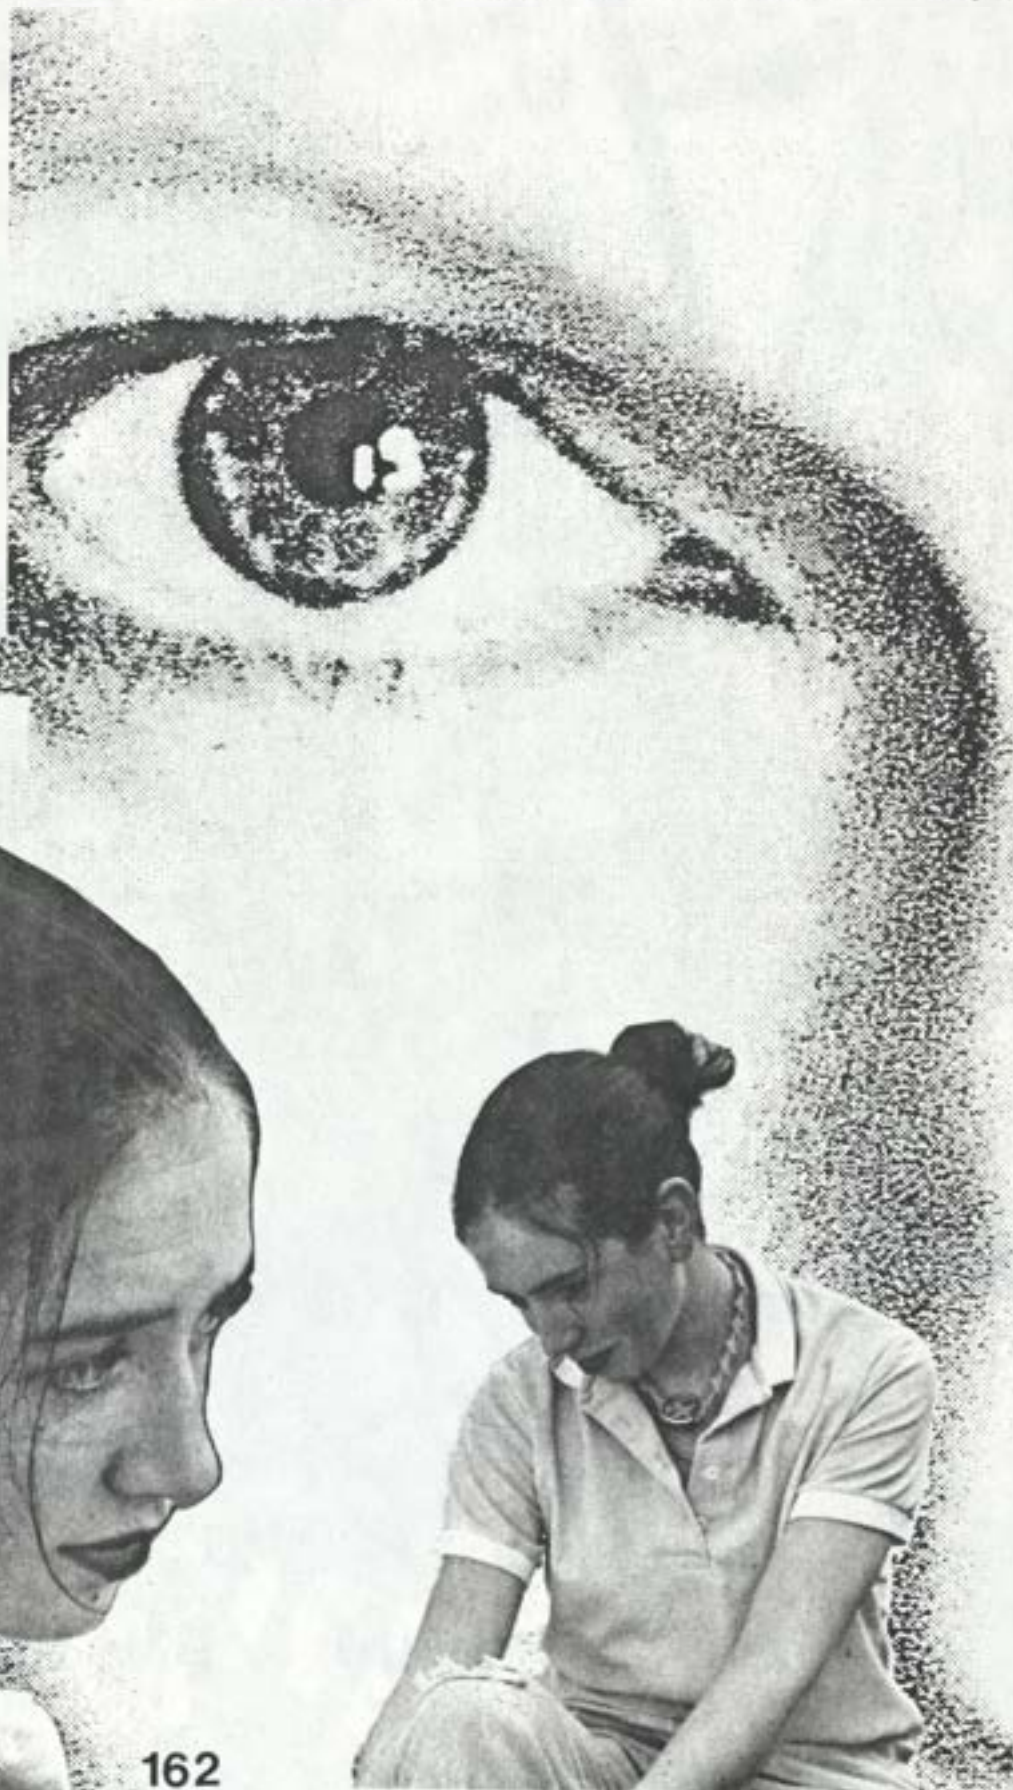

I've got a dream that's growing inside me
I'm ready to burst and set it free
I know god waits in the city of angels now I've been building a wall these many years
I feel safe inside hiding all my fears don't hold your breath if you're trying to touch me

they said "don't believe in yourself
we're gonna bang your head, down
we're gonna bang your head bang your head down"

We are aging
soon to pass away
so cruel to never know, never know never finish what was started

Several months' worth of Teen, Seventeen, YM, and Sassy left me with a blur of contradictory messages about how to navigate life as an adolescent girl. The sum of it is this: be pretty, but not so pretty that you intimidate boys, threaten other girls, or attract inappropriate suitors, such as teachers, bosses, fathers, and rapists; be smart, but not so smart that you intimidate boys or lead them astray; be athletic, but not so athletic that you intimidate boys or lead them astray; be aggressive, but not so aggressive that, (god forbid) you miss the prom to study for finals; be a lesbian or bisexual; be happy with yourself, but not if you're fat, ugly, poor, gay, disabled, antisocial, or can't at least pass as white.

Dear mista chief of police,

Excuse my hand writing but try to understand that I wrote this with a broken hand. I'm just one out of many from the inner-city who's been a victim of unseen brutality, beaten with a bilie club until I became numb. Pistol whip bruises on my face from a hand gun. They said that I was speeding, going over the limit, but when they pulled me over, man the never gave me a ticket. They just said I better stick both of my hands out my window real slow or be one dead negro. But I was used to routine. I'm under the slow pace 'cause I don't want to be a mistake. But that's when your boys got to trippin' on me, pulled me out my car and they both started kickin' on me. I ain't no punchin' bag man. My name ain't Gredy or Fredy for a cop to be beatin' on me any time that he's ready. So I drop to my knees, and I cover my head tight, but that's when they bust me in the neck with a flashlight. But still I stayed calm, and I took the pain, picturing my ancestors going through the same damn thing. But then I started thinking 'bout the brother from Alladina who was in the same I wasn't next on thee agenda. So I got up flip, heard him hit the corner. But when I woke up,... another black and white. I'm paralyzed waist down from a bullet wound. And now I'm being charged for resisting arrest, but it was either catch a bullet or be beaten to death. Now for the rest of my life, I got tubes connected to my lungs, just because your boys wanted to have fun. So here's a complaint to let the whole world know--this is what goes on behind closed doors.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT,
I AM ON EVERY SINGLE PAGE OF THE GIZZARD.

To all my friends in Harmony.

It seemed only like yesterday I walked down the halls of Harmony, greeting familiar faces and feeling the warmth of togetherness. There is a certain magic in Harmony which attracts people from all over to converge to this harmonised institution of education. I've never been happier in my life than I've been in Harmony. The teachers, the students and it's system have really made an influential mark on me. The closeness and togetherness between teacher and student cannot be found anywhere else.

Two weeks back, my mom and I went on a pilgrimage to India. South India to be exact. It was my first trip ever. The feeling of "returning" to one's motherland is such a sensation. South India was particularly dry since it was the begining of the hot season which means frequent electricity and water cuts! The heat was intolerable so I was quenching my thirst with gallons of mineral water for the water in India is not safe to drink.

We visited many temples and other places of worship. The highlight of the trip was the shaving of my head! Hindus shave their heads when they are 1 year old. They also do it when they have taken a vow or have succeeded in their vow. I did it because I wanted to pass my upcoming exam which is the exam that "kills" every teenager in Malaysia. It is the dreaded S.P.M. exam (Sijil Pelajaran Malaysia) Malaysian Certificate of Education. It basically is your ticket out of high school and into the rough and tough and the highly competitive world. In simple terms, it determines your future. I've got eight months more before the exam. The exam consists of two to three years of work combined into one paper of different subjects such as History, English, Commerce, Economics and the National Language - Malay.

That is all I have to say right now. There is much more to talk about but I guess I'll be using up the whole page by now! To end this, I just like to say Thank You to all the teachers and students for teaching me that the simple values in life can be found in one's heart but most important of all, it can be found at Harmony, where your feelings and bodies are always safe.

Your friend,
Prem Vasudevan

Arnold was the runt of a litter and was going to die so my mom bottle fed him and we kept him as a family pet. Contemplating the lace-like fabric of streams outspread over the mountains, we were reminded that everything is flowing--going somewhere, animals and so-called lifeless rocks as well as the water. Thus the snow flows fast or slow in grand beauty-making glaciers and avalanches; the air in majestic floods carrying minerals, plant leaves, seeds, spores, with streams of music and fragrance; water streams carrying rocks both in solution and in the form of mud particles, sand, pebbles, and boulders. Rocks flow from volcanoes like water from springs, and animals flock together and flow in currents modified by stepping, leaping, gliding, flying, swimming, etc. While the stars go streaming through space pulsed on and on forever like blood globules in Nature's warm heart.

THE HARP

Only the music came. There was no feather, hair, milk, smoke or names. Neither night or day. Alone between the planets born from the eclipse music trembled like cloth.

Suddenly fire and cold coagulated in a drop and the universe moulded its extensive display, lava, bristling ashes, slippery dawn, everything was transformed from hardness to hardness, and under the dampness newly celestial, established the diamond with its symmetrical frost. Then the primal sound, the solitary music of the world congealed and fell changing into a star, a harp, a zither, silence, stone.

Along the Chilean coast, with cold and winter, when rain falls washing the weeks. Listen: solitude becomes music once more, and it seems its appearance is that of air, of rain, that time, something with wave and wings, passes by, grows. And the harp awakes from oblivion.

Detras del Horizonte
(Beyond the horizon)

Words never fail me to talk about hope old refrains tell you that's the last thing you can lose wise words when so little sun filters through your window when you don't get to perspire those sorrows that trap you and you feel like dying

Beyond the horizon the sun is always going to rise
the night won't last for ever, nor will the pain
Beyond the horizon the sun is always going to rise
my grandmother used to sing to me with her voice like a nightingale

I always take advantage of the delays to check my steps trying to find the shortcuts that take me side by side with you trying to heal the world that turn pale in my song, crying looking for the exact word, to make it touch your heart and make it stay in there, living inside of you

Beyond the horizon the sun is always going to rise...

There are in your pupils a pair of dancers that submerge their bodies in peaceful crystalline waters like the mantle of the moon

There are two gentle cats that slowly peek out, and scratch my silence, passion in captivity of love
so soaked of life like the sun

Floating in your pupils are two lost anchors that guard the remedy of that uncertain future, placed in our hands that we might make it our own

In your pupils shines the life that approaches seeds that germinate, that burn the margins that grow secretly in the stories and the games of the children

In your pupils
is the force that gives me life even through your crystal silet grew up and you just want to dance

and I turn crazy with my guitar and my song

I get wrapped in your hands
I let myself be drawn for your body,
Oh, you got the whole world beating on the rhythm of your heart

And you just want to dance
you just want to love

After jumping on the professional stage, along these 10 years, Engel O. has represented Nicaragua in Music Festivals around the world: Japan (1985), Mexico (1985), Russia and Ukraina (1986), Germany (1987), Peru (1987), Cuba (1988), Sweden (1989) and has performed concerts in Santa Monica, Santa Barbara, San Diego and Los Angeles, California, Madison, Wisconsin and Bloomington and Indianapolis, Indiana, U.S.A. (1990,1994, 1995).

Because Engel O.'s first album "No Pares de Cantar" includes several rock compositions he quickly became known as the rockman of Nicaragua. In spite of that, Engel O. is a wide spectrum composer and in his musical production it is possible to find from the hard rock to the reggae, to the ballad, to the "son nica" (nicaraguan traditional rhythm) with the only exception of the lyric work in his songs, which is part of the new generation of composers style in Nicaragua, and which involves more poetry and social content than the traditional music in Nicaragua.

Oil Struck in Keddy's Pants

Students and teachers alike were shocked by a black substance secreting from Keddy's crotch area. According to reports teacher David Christman was helping Keddy do a geometry problem when a compass was accidentally dropped in Keddy's lap. Keddy was then heard to exclaim "Thar she blows!" as a huge gush of oil broke loose from his pants. You see, it seems that Keddy's pants produced more oil than the entire country of Saudi Arabia this year. When asked about this phenomenon, Keddy just replied "Black gold! Texas tea!" Kinfolk have been quoted as saying "Ked move away from there!", but unfortunately he has to stick around for further drilling.

Katy Kelly--Middle School Math Teacher or Ninja Assassin?

Witnesses say that Ms. Kelly paused in the middle of explaining nonhomogeneous horizontal asymptotes to her 11:15 math class. She quickly unsheathed her deadly numchucks, and dove through the plate glass window, completing a triple gainer with a $3/4$ twist before landing stealthily atop High School student James Siebert's Volkswagon bug. James, who was just arriving for school, was only able to let out a high pitched scream before Katy disappeared into the tool shed calling behind her in a badly dubbed over voice, "Be not afraid, Grasshopper."

Body of Missing Student Found

During a routine all school cleanup a skeleton was found under the radiator in teacher Katy Kelly's room. The body was determined to be ex-student Kejal Crosson-Elturan. While students admitted Kejal was thin, they had no idea she had wasted away to nothing. Apparently she had been using the radiator as a tanning booth and fell asleep. Students are mourning the loss of their fellow classmate. Josh Merrill commented, "Well, I never thought that bag of bones could ever get a good tan anyway."

Anna Strout an Unbelievably Accomplished Person

The Harmony School Yearbook staff was shocked recently when we received Anna Strout's believability scale test results. apparently the seemingly mild mannered senior has a daredevil side to her. It seems she has done a whopping 197 out of the 200 accomplishments on the believability scale. Among the more amazing things she has done are jumped off Niagara Falls, manicured a Yak, and, most unbelievable of all, eaten SPAM. The only things on the scale that she has not done are tied her own shoes, been in the newspaper, and she doesn't remember Michael Jackson's real nose. When asked for a comment about these things, she simply said, "Wasn't everyone sad to see Dan Quayle leave office?"

Andy Lund School Hero

Harmony School students were terrified Tuesday when, during a fire drill, a glowing silver disk appeared above Harmony School. Upon landing, 30 green men stepped out of the craft and began firing lasers at the students. High School sophomore Andy Lund saved the day when he returned fire with his mega-ultra-super-blasto-rific hand gun. After firing a few blasts Andy successfully routed the invading aliens and saved the day.

Soccer Challenge Shocker

The traditional Middle School-Elementary School Soccer Massacre had an unfamiliar ending this year as Bennet van der Genugten's triple hat trick proved too much for the bigger, faster, meaner Middle Schoolers. In spite of constant triple teaming, van der Genugten displayed an array of skills, not the least of which was a splendid 70 yard header that sizzled by the outreached arms of Heather "Cinderella" Bartlett. But all was not lost for the Middle School, who maintained actual possession of the coveted rubber chicken, when center back James Buhls, grabbing the winner's trophy, shocked the crowd by actually eating it. "Well, it was that or give it to the little twerps," Buhls said with an unsportmanslike whine. The Middle School is already in training for next year's challenge at Lee's Kickboxing Academy.

Middle School Teachers Come Back Without Students

The halls of Harmony School have recently seemed unusually empty. Alison Cochran had this to say about the new-found peace, "I can't explain it exactly, there are no more shrieks coming from down the hall. I finally feel like I can teach a class without having to go into the hall and scream at someone to quiet down!"

The new peace came to an end when Libby was first to notice there were no middle school students in the building! She had gone looking for a middle school student, when lo-and-behold, she couldn't find any! Nor could she find any of the middle school teachers.

It appears that the middle school teachers have all barricaded themselves inside of Learning Treasures, demanding a helicopter and one million dollars in cash before they'll tell their dirty little secret about where the students actually are.

Investigators have put two and two together to find only one thing: the students were discarded at some point during the middle school trip.

Harmony headmaster Roc Bonchek had this to say about the teachers having barricaded themselves inside of Learning Treasures, "It's sad they think we won't help them. We only want to know where the students are so we ensure they aren't found."

Emma Rice to be star of Clueless II

You may remember that dashing girl from such B movies as Slasher Jocks From Hell, The Pink Evil Things, or even Hey, My Axe Murderer's Back where she starred with supporting actress Heather Locklear, but now she's busting loose with the sequel to Clueless, the blockbuster about America's stupidest heart breakers. Everyone here at Harmony School is very happy for their fellow classmate, although reports are streaming in about her so-called "Holier Than Thou" attitude. When Emma was asked about these claims she exclaimed "Don't ask me, I'm just a girl." Way to get into character Emma.

Sheba

Sheba, who is a soft, cute, and cuddly mild mannered cougar, seems perfectly harmless; but when provoked she can become a terrible beast. Emmy Blackwell, who is a nice, calm, intelligent girl, also seems perfectly harmless; but when attacked, she can become a ruthless savage. Emmy, the Yearbook photographer, was only trying to do her job by taking a picture of the fuzzy feline. Little did she anticipate the horrible onslaught that would ensue. Unbeknownst to Emmy, Sheba was very, very camera shy. She asked Sheba's owner for permission to take a picture. She moved closer, closer, closer and...CLICK! The camera went off. Sheba went nuts, drooling and snarling. In her catlike mind she continued to see the flash of the camera again and again. Suddenly, she jumped at the unsuspecting photographer. The two, engaged in a terrible struggle, slashed at each other's throats and legs. After a few bloody hours of battle they both fell over, exhausted, their wounds pulsating.

Animal testing revealed

Evil twins Thomas and James Buhls were placed under citizen's arrest early Friday morning by animal rights activists Andrew Redman and Riley Manion. It all started with a simple-minded cricket G-force tester. As the popularity of this device increased the dastardly duo went on to bigger and better (?) devices, experimenting on animals higher up the evolutionary ladder. They were finally apprehended during Marty Belcher's final BOB class attempting to strap Marty into their newly devised neuro hydraplasmatic spasifier. As they were being led out they were heard justifying their actions: "BOB and Marty are one. Marty must die. . . ."

Morris Dancers cause flooding

New discoveries show that throughout history, the Morris Dancers have been the source of massive floods, dating back to the ancient Hwang Ho floods in China. Records indicate that entire villages were swept away when Ying Lee Morris practiced his sacred rain dance on the banks of the Yellow River. Research shows that Tutankhamon Morris may be related to the floods of the ancient Nile. Harmony high schooler, Deborah Russo, became suspicious at the May Day festivities, when after the harmless little dance drinking fountains, toilets, and the 5th and 6th graders aquarium overflowed.

Manuel Noriega Makes Jail Break to Visit Harmony School

233

Harmony students were agog when a marine paratroop unit suddenly descended upon the roof of the School. It seems that former Panamanian freedom fighter, Manuel Noriega, had escaped from prison and was posing as a Harmony School student. When he realized he had been found out he was heard to exclaim "Viva la Harmony School!". As the marines closed in on Mr. Noriega they became distracted by the High School bake sale which displayed savory treats, quite a change from their grunt rations. This gave Mr. Noriega adequate time to whip up his famous pineapple upside down cake which won the hearts of Marine squad 3867 who later let him go free. When asked what happened the marines were too busy gorging themselves to comment.

Do You Really Know Bing?

Suspicious which led to an investigation found that Bing Martin is really a shaved monkey. Through intensive interrogation he divulged information about the S.M.U. (Shaved Monkey Union). We discovered that there are thousands of shaved monkeys living as people. Bing also informed us that the ultimate agenda is to take over the world. Be very careful Shaved monkeys could be anywhere.

Zimmer Girls Science Experiment goes Haywire

Fun loving senior Christian Ebel Orr became the unsuspecting victim of Greta and Naomi Zimmer's science experiment titled The Effects of Anabolic Steroids on the Adrenal Glands of Hamsters. Forced to make do with laboratory equipment culled from the glove compartment of the school's white van, the Zimmer girls placed the powerful steroid pellets in the only thing available--a Pez dispenser. Little did Christian know when he popped the innocent looking head of Santa that he was, in fact, ingesting mega doses of the adrenocorticotrophic hormone. Christian's friends became concerned when they noticed his hypothalamus glowing while Naomi followed him uttering the words "Amazing, amazing, simply amazing." Christian was also reported to be smacking middle schoolers on their heads with a rolled up copy of Soldier of Fortune magazine while humming "Macho Macho Man." A repentant Greta said "How was I to know the moron would eat those little orange pills--holy Christ you'd think he'd have a brain in that beady head of his."

News Flash--Firemen were forced to assist Harmony 9th graders Jeremy Harris and Drew Dibble off the roof of the school yesterday, where they were reportedly committing a joint suicide. Apparently the two were sent into a deep state of depression when their giant collection of Nitro Cola bottles were sent toppling to the floor into a shower of glass.

Witnesses say that when Carrie Platz flung open the locker, where the collection was kept, they were all jolted to the floor. "Oops" stated Platz.

You talkin' to me?.... You talkin' to me?.... Are you talkin' to me?.... You must be talkin' to me 'cause there ain't nobody else in this room.... You talkin' to me?.... You talkin' to me?.... You must be talkin' to me cause there ain't no one else around.... Boy what we gotta do to get your attention!

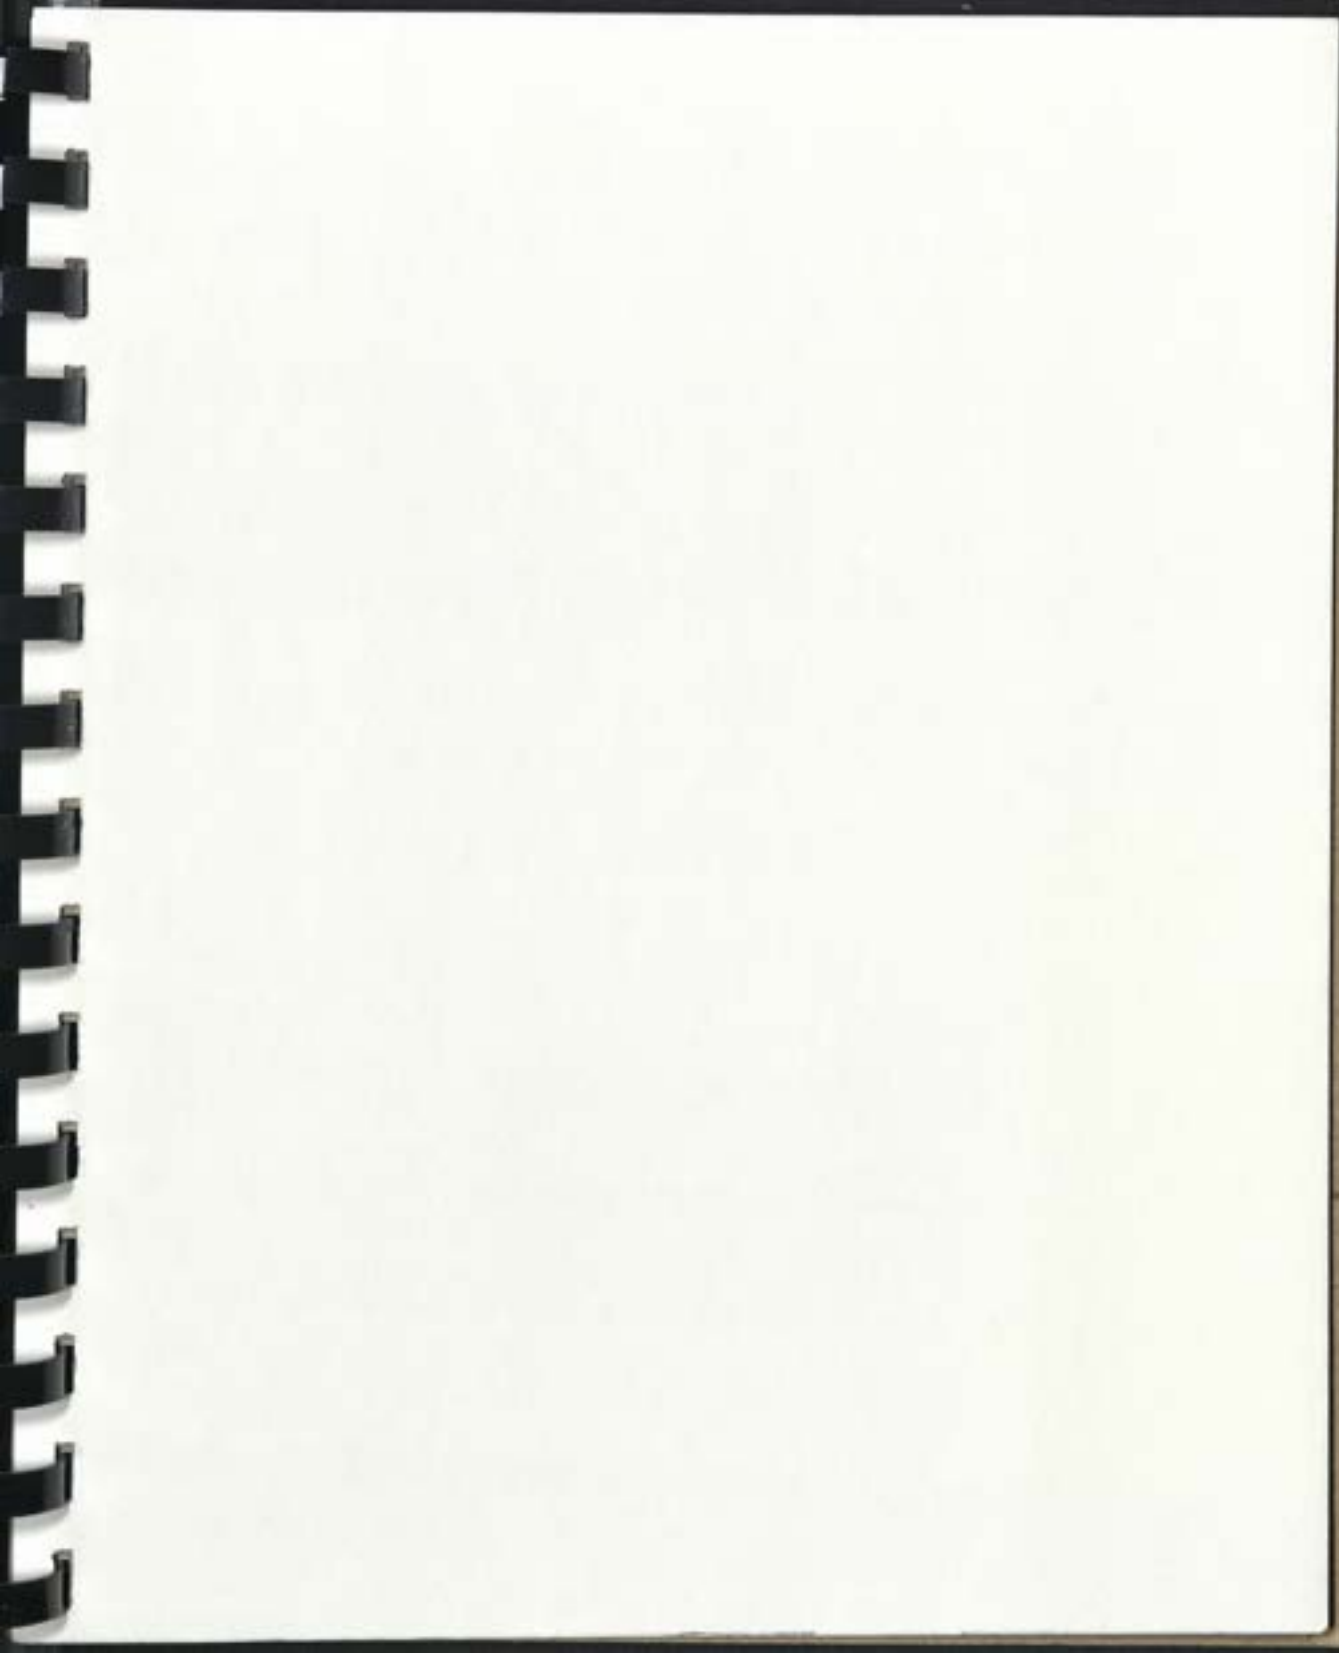

Now, if this book is a labor-of-love--it's of the tough love variety & nobody had it tougher than Emmy Blackwell. She incurred the wrath of virtually everyone--teachers whose classes she was in, teachers whose classes were disrupted, nervous students who demanded retake after retake, and endless technical hassles. As always she brought her own sense of grace & good humor to the situation--(we couldn't have done the book without you). And then we have Naomi whose tenure as head yearbook editor has finally drawn to a close. She remarkably occupied that position without benefit of taking a single picture, doing virtually no layout, or writing any Gizzard material. What she did was organize, keep things straight, pick up the loose ends, make sure everything and everybody worked together. She's been indispensable. It's a tough act to follow, but Leila has officially been passed the reigns. As a Middle Schooler, she's our youngest primary editor ever. She too is a detail person, but with a cinematic/post generation "X" kind of slant. It will be interesting to see where she takes the book in the future. This issue also saw some new people step up to our literary chopping block--most notably Austin who took charge of the Gizzzzard. So, if there are any lapses of taste, journalistic faux pas, or unsubstantiated accusations--you know where to point. And there's Flora, who in her quiet way, is mastering every skill--photography, layout and design, writing copy, even fixing the computer when it goes "Kerplunk." With Riley, Anna, Zeri, Melanie, Kejal, Tansy Olive, Mary, Beth, Julia, Katelin, Lana, Isaac, Carrie, Justin, Garrett, and our old pros--Soriya, Christian, Andy, Camellia, and Greta, the everyday mood around our illustrious office was, believe it or not, fun.

So, there you have it. But we thought you might like to know. Our scientific analysis of the "Believability Scale" supports the following: 93% of Harmony Students have been lost at a mall; 86% sang a Garth Brooks tune; 71% have eaten paper; 66% have been to the Emergency Room; 54% had head lice; 42% talked back to Rice Krispies; 38% wished upon a star; 25% planned names of future children; 18% watched after school special; 6% felt like Cher, and .5% chased a chicken to death. We hate to divulge names, but Lana feels really bad about the whole incident!
