Missing: Mathew

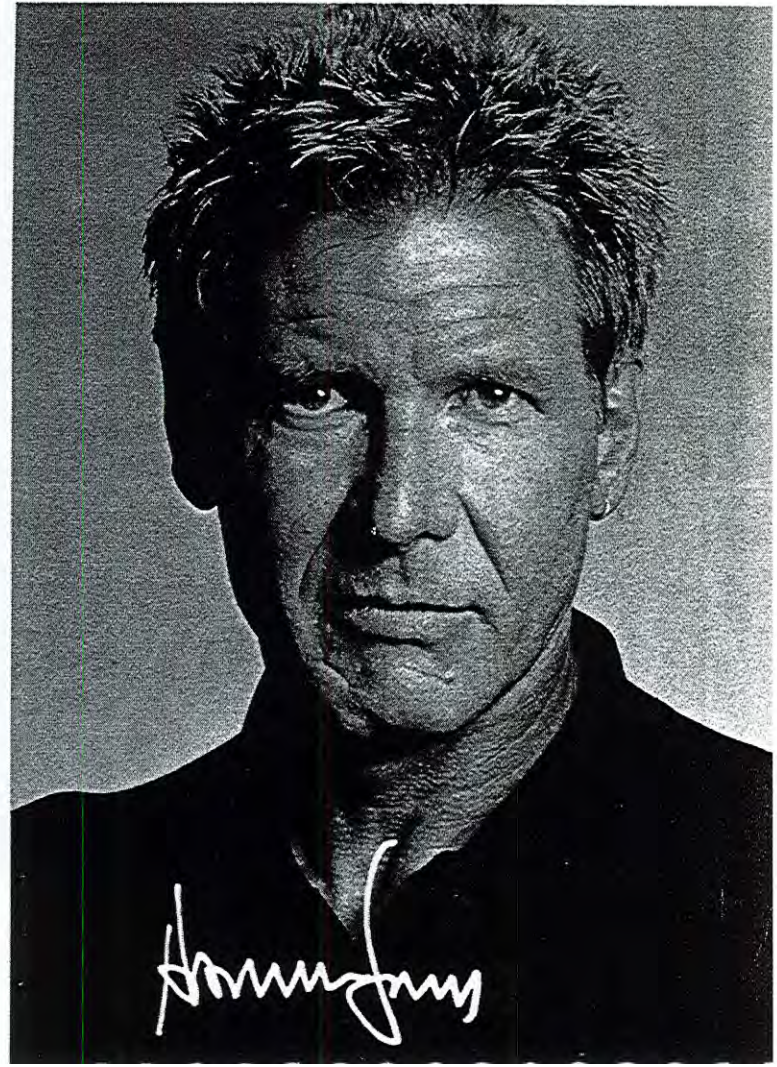

When the yearbook staff brainstormed possible themes for this issue we never dreamt Mathew Calinescu would factor into our decision. We came up with the "Missing Issue" because it presented strong graphic possibilities--people could be literally missing from school, (placed via Photoshop somewhere in the world), or students could be present (at school) and include things they're missing. This interpretation of missing could include either things they've lost (see ECP pages) or things they yearn for. Then news of Mathew's passing reached us. He had been at school a few days earlier. He was, on that Friday, as he always seemed to be--good natured, a bit lumbering in the hallway crowd as he exchanged greetings with a half dozen people. Mathew was comfortable with this generation of students as he was years earlier when he attended Harmony. He knew he always had a place. And, while it's true, he's gone, he's not missing.

"THERE IS PEACE AND CALM IN GOLDFISH HEAVEN"

LILY FREESE-POSTHUMA

This note should be pretty easy to understand. All the words are from Punk Rock 101... "I haven't felt the excitement of listening to, as well as, creating music, along with reading and writing for too many years now...I've tried everything that's in my power to appreciate it, and I do, god, believe me, i do... I must be one of those narcissists who only appreciate things when they're along. I'm too sensitive. I need to be slightly numb in order to regain the enthusiasim i had as a child...there is good in all of us and i simply love people too much. So much that in makes me feel too fucking sad ...I have it good, very good, and i am grateful. But since the age of seven, I've become hateful toward all humans in general...I'm too much of an erratic, moody baby! I don't have the passion anymore. And so remember: its better to burn out then to fade away

DEATH IS

“ There is unrest in the forest,
There is trouble with the trees,
For the maples want more sunlight,
And the oaks ignore their pleas.
The trouble with the maples,
And they're quite convinced they're right,
They say the oaks are far too lofty,
And they grab up all the light.
Well, the oaks can't help their feelings
If they like the way they're made,
And they wonder why the maples
Can't be happy in the shade.
There is trouble in the forest,
And the creatures all have fled.
The maples screams, 'OPPRESSION!'
As the oaks just shake their heads.
The maples formed a union,
And demanded equal rights.
They say the oaks are just too greedy,
'We will make them give us light!'
Now there's no more oak oppression,
For they passed a noble law.
Now the trees are all kept equal
By hatchet, axe, and saw. ”

“If personality is an unbroken series of successful gestures, then there was something gorgeous about him, some heightened sensitivity to the promises of life, as if he were related to one of those earthquakes ten-thousand miles away...

...it was an extraordinary gift for hope, a romantic readiness such as I have never found in any other person and which it is not likely I shall ever find again.”

-F. Scott Fitzgerald

*Jessica
LaJoie*

As opposed to your 'run of the mill' yearbook pages, i.e. picture and name, crazy photoshop effects, artistic pieces, I will be using my yearbook page to, in the hope that it will leave a lasting imprint upon the mind and hereby make my mark in Harmony High School, pose a very important question.

It's a bit hypothetical, if you'll bear with me while I explain the situation. It's a bit required, for you to understand the nature of the query at hand.

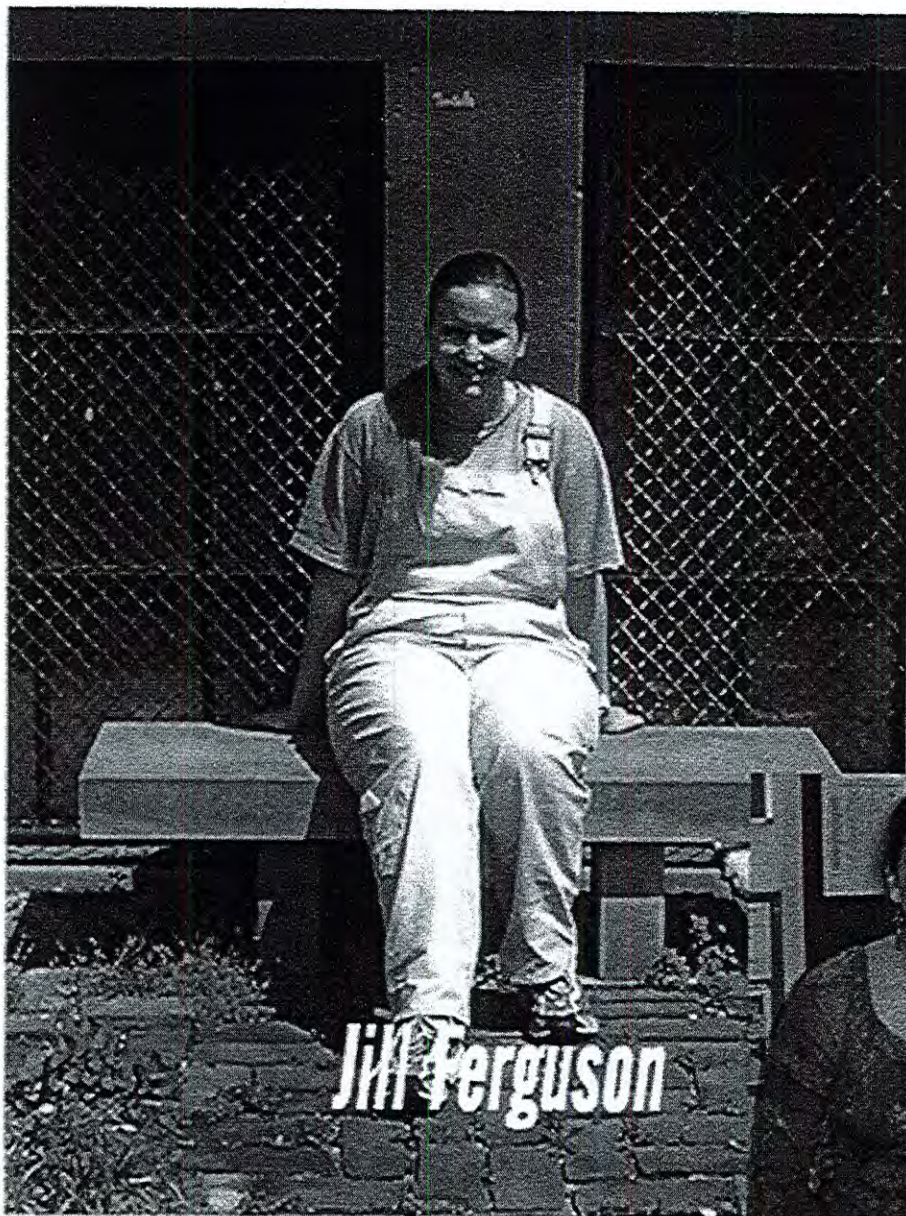

You're walking down the street...more a street in idea than in actual practice, as this particular 'street' is composed of dirt and bits of gravel, but, imagine yourself walking down this street. But, on the contrary to what you are thinking, you're not actually on the street, merely meandering along the side of it, near the small rain drainage ditch.

So...you're meandering your way along the side of this 'street', and you chance upon a blind man with a tin cup begging for change. Let me clarify this in your mind's eye. He is sitting on the side of this 'street' in the middle of nowhere (not really sitting, more squatting than anything else) with a beaten tin (perhaps pewter...you never can tell) cup in his gloved hand. I failed to mention his garb, which is torn and near to useless as heating devices. We assume he is blind due to the extensive cataracts in his eyes, shown quite clearly by the whiteness.

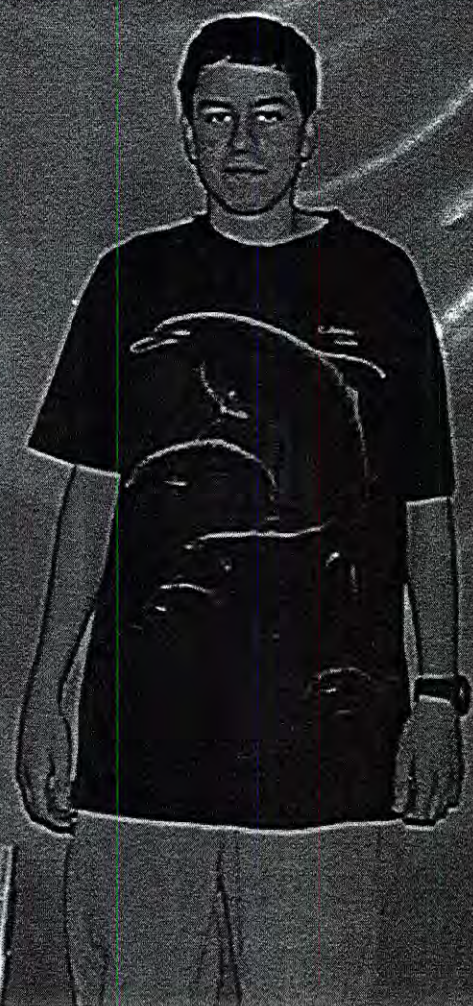

ANYWAY. Feeling sympathetic (all cold hearted people who have never experienced this, it's a bit of a welling feeling near the icy concavity once known as your heart...it makes you want to help needy people), you dig through your pocket for some change of some sort and find only a five dollar bill. Saying you can't help him, the man's eyes turn red, and he transforms into Marduk, son of Ia, Slayer of Tiamat. Feel free to write your answer on the line below.

As we struggle along the main
And we tried to call it home
But we weren't alright, not at all
Not for one second

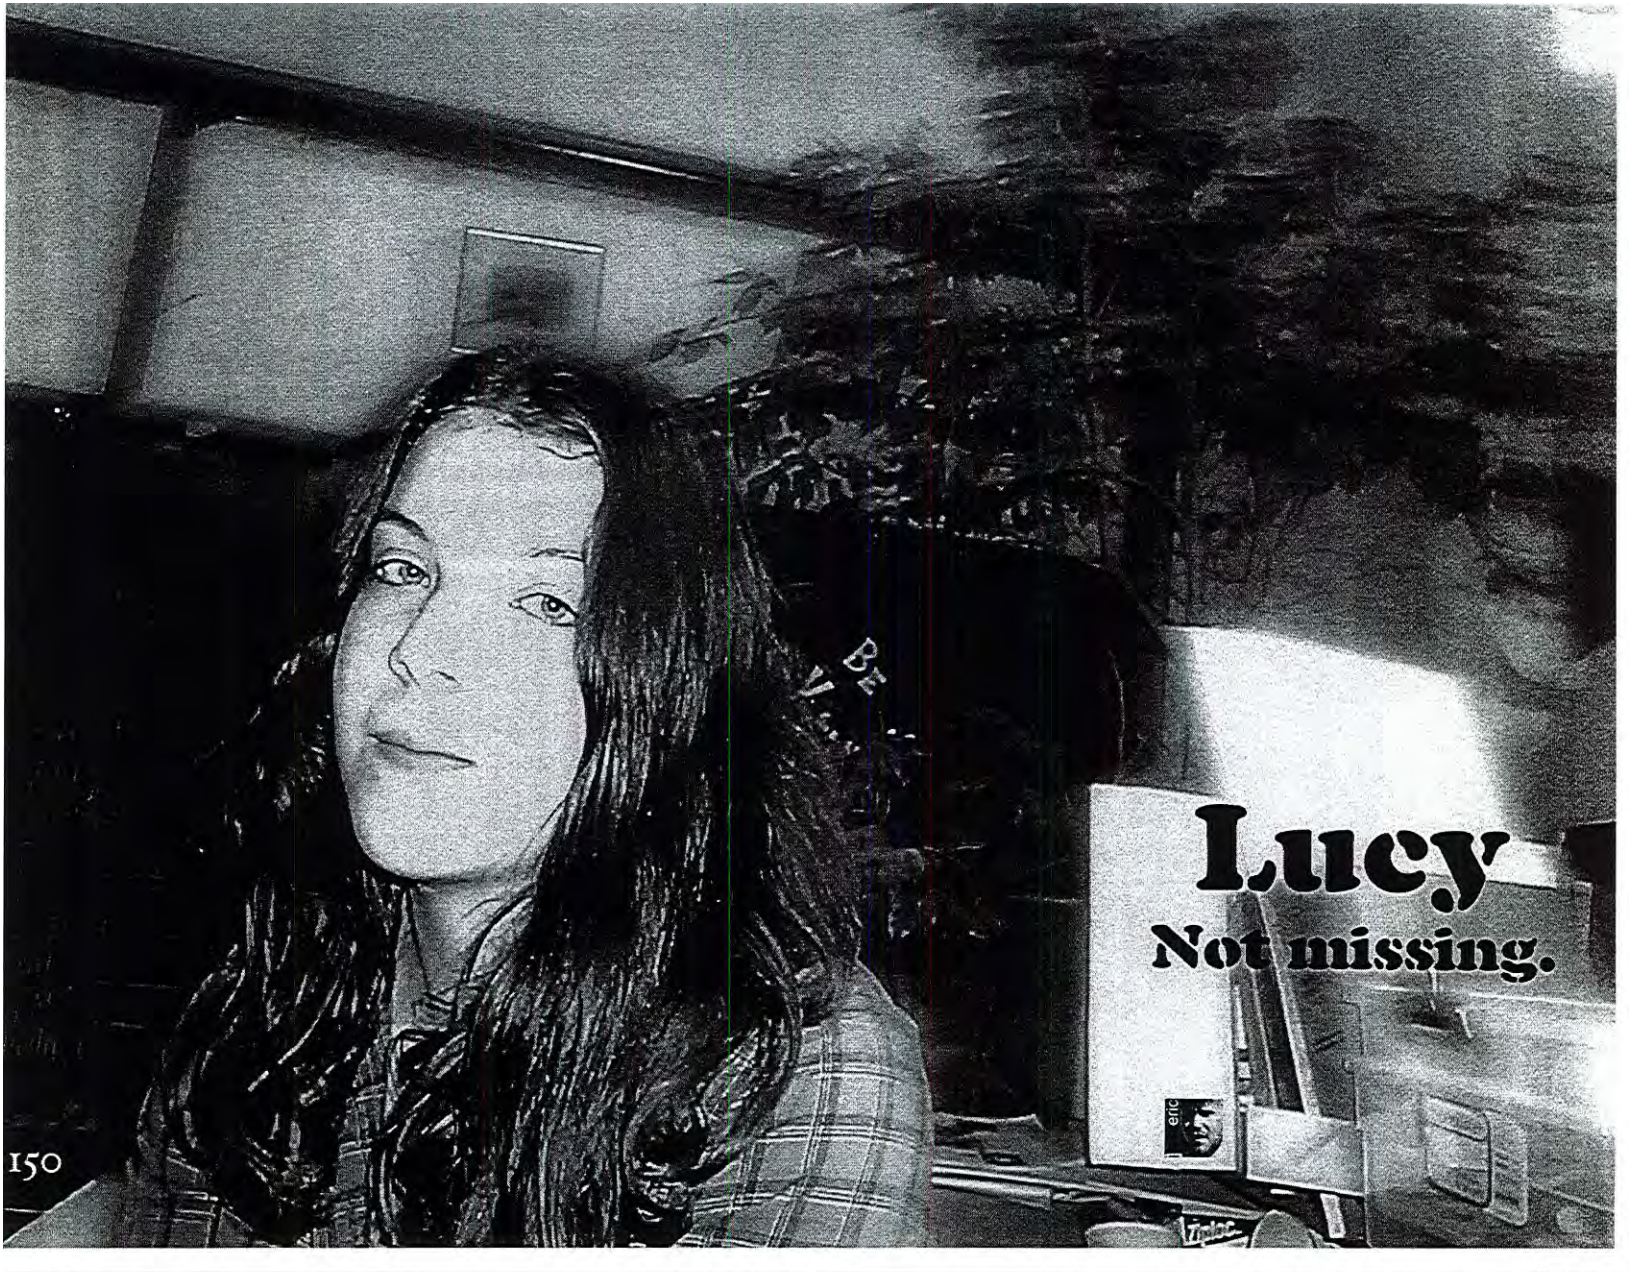

Never have been one to write it down
Now I think I can
I know I'm stronger now
Who's looking south
Not me I'm not looking back
I'm done denying the truth to anyone
Cause I'm alive

You showed me how
You seemed to find a hole
But I just laughed and smiled
Begged and rolled my eyes
Even cried and
Denied the truth to you
Just like the truth to me
Mostly lied

I'm not going to look back

Avery Liell-Kok

*No I would not sleep in the Bed of Lies * So toss me out, and turn in*

*And they'll be no rest for these tired eyes * I'm marking it down to learning * I am*

*Don't think that I can take another empty moment * Don't think that I can fake another*

*Hollow smile * It's not enough just to be sorry * Don't think that I could take another talk*

*About it * Just like me, you've got needs * And they're only a whisper away * And we softly surrender*

To these lives that we've tendered away

*No I would not sleep in this Bed of Lies * So toss me out, and turn in*

*And they'll be no rest for these tired eyes * I'm marking it down to learning * I am*

*Don't wanna be the one who turns the whole thing over * Don't wanna be somewhere where I just don't belong*

*Where it's not enough to just be sorry * (I'm sorry) * Don't you know I feel the darkness*

*Closing in * Tried to be more than me * And I gave til it all went away * And we've only surrendered*

*To the worst part of these winters * We've made*

*I am all that I'll ever be * When you lay your hands * Over me*

*But don't go weak on me now * I know that's it's weak*

But God help me

I need this

*No I would not sleep * In this Bed of Lies * So toss me out, and turn in * And they'll * Be no rest for these tired eyes*

*I'm marking it down to learning * I'm marking it down to learning*

Ben Runs For Help When Spanish Class Fails to Conjugate Verb "Hablar"

"Go boy, go get help, you can do it!" said a distraut Carrie Biddle, "Go find Ross--he can teach them to conjugate this verb." Indeed, the second year Spanish students not only failed to conjugate the verb "hablar," but failed to conjugate any verb at all. Instead they took it upon themselves to create an entirely different language that consists of putting an "o" at the end of every word. "Damnito, lo can'to conjugato anyo verbo!"

Neil Falsely Accused of Writing Graffiti

Neil Buechlein, 16, was taken into custody Wednesday afternoon after being accused of writing Chinese Monk Heiroglyphics on the walls of the upstairs boys bathroom. "Dude, I swear it wasn't me, Dude, I don't even know Chinese!" Buechlein could be heard screaming as he was placed into the squadcar."

Kurt Cobain's Corpse Discovered in Middle School Couch

Sahar was doing her clean-up, the middle school lounge, when she noticed a hand sticking out of the couch cushion. Thinking it was Lance trying to scare her, she smacked it with her broom. The hand fell off and rolled onto the floor. By that time, she knew that it wasn't Lance and something was not right. She courageously dug through the rest of the couch only to find Kurt Cobain's lifeless body. This sparked great interest in middle school student David Goodman. Sahar wanted to keep the dead rock star for herself, but David, being a huge Nirvana fan, thought he deserved to keep it. The whole ordeal ended in a vicious fight. "There was lots of hair pulling and sissy hitting," explained bystander Sarah Ayres. "It was yucky!" In the end David claimed the body for his own in exchange for a romantic candle-lit dinner.

Joel's Halloween Breast Plate Haunts Sallyann

"I woke up in a cold sweat every night for 3 months following the 'breastplate incident,'" said Social Studies teacher and vikingphobic Sallyann Murphey. Community Service Mistakenly Pulled

Community service at Harmony School was suddenly pulled from the curriculum after one of the student "service learning sites" was shut down due to unhealthy working conditions, violation of human rights, and child labor laws. "The working space and resting areas were nearly uninhabitable, overrun by rats, infested with fruit flies and bugs," said a spokesperson for Bloomington Health and Sanitation Department. It was later discovered the spokesperson was actually referring to the Middle School lounge but

Kathy Possessed by Eye Doctor

5th and 6th grade students were alarmed Friday when their beloved teacher, Kathy Boone, returned from the "eye doctor", "With, like, her pupils all dialated and stuff...yeah," said Sarah Ayres. Kathy's students at first did not know how to react to the satanic appearance of their (usually) kindhearted teacher. "It was just frightening," said 6th grader Izzy. "We forgot her last name; she looked like a dead person." They are now growing suspicious as to who this "eye doctor" really was, suspicions founded upon business cards advertising Lucie Fer and S.A. Tan. When questioned about her "eye doctor," all we could get out of Kathy was, "Yes, Master."

Sahar's Leaf Maze Mistaken for Crop Circle.

It all started innocently enough. Sahar and various kids from around the school spent their lunch hour creating a leaf maze. After school, however, Jordan from the Middle School walked outside to dump the compost. He stopped dead in his tracks. Thirty seconds later he was trying to convince the teachers that Harmony had its very own crop circle. Teacher Tom Hastings was so inspired from the formation that he

Lack of Offensive Halloween Costumes Offend Parents

Everyone was shocked—even the preschoolers. This year's Harmony Halloween Parade was completely bland. "What's wrong with these kids? One lousy enema box! Come on, there had nothing to complain about! They can do better than one enema box!" said one parent, who wished to remain anonymous. "After last year's feminine hygiene fiasco, this year was just disappointing" said another. This year's costumes included an angel, Dorothy from "The Wizard of Oz", a kitty cat, Casper the Friendly Ghost and Elmo. Let's hope that next year's batch has more backbone.

Big Bad Wolf Proposes Harmony Build House Out of Straw

"It seemed like a good idea, at the time" said Harmony Director Steve Bonchek. "A renewable resource like straw is very much what Harmony school is about." Students, however, have doubts on whether or not Mr. B.B. Wolf was just using the Harmony philosophy for his own gain. Many younger students refused to go near the house after witnessing an earlier incident of huffing and puffing on Mr. Wolf's part.

Matt's Dog Swallowed In Dog Obedience Class

It happened in an instant. Freshman Matt Basore's 12 ounce Yorkshire Terrier was accidentally swallowed by Ben, Charlie Murphey's 900 pound guernsey lab. It happened during a class that was teaching them to do the opposite. Ben, thinking Indy was a small, yet hairy, piece of delicate food snatched up the wee pup in the blink of an eye. In response to the accident, Ben only had a short, yet profound comment: "Woof."

Chewy Chinese Dog Snacks Fool High Schoolers

On Monday, Elvis Yeung announced that the chewy 'candy' he had been handing out to high school students was actually Chinese dog treats he had brought from Hong-Kong. "I don't know where they got the idea they were candy," said an apologetic Elvis. High schooler Carrie said that she didn't care "I love them!" she said. "Especially the yogurt flavored vegan ones."

Elm Heights Neighbors Complain of Rut Formed from Students Walking to Subway

A surprising confrontation between students and the residents surrounding Harmony School occurred after cars could no longer travel on Hunter Street due to a deep groove in the road. Angered neighbors wanted their smooth road surface back. The students were not aware that their multi-daily rituals would cause such a stir and were shocked to learn about the rut. "I walk this path several times a day and never noticed the deepening path," remarked Alex Phelps. "My mind is usually on what flavor cookie I'm going to get." Likewise fellow student Levi Jamison wasn't cognizant of the damage, "I'm just always thinking about what cool article I'm going to choose to read on the wallpaper when I get there." A solution was reached when all the smokers agreed to throw their butts in the designated location of the rut. Derek Hawkins gave a conservative estimate of being able to fill the block long hole within a week.

Neil Trains Dog to Beg For Cheesy Poofs

When his parents refused to him junk food, Neil was forced to take matters into his own hands. He trained Sally Anne's dog, Ben, to beg for cheesy poofs. "It's working great! I've gotten 83 bags in the past month alone. The college students are the best. Leave him in their yard and they bring out the poofs to feed him. He grabs the bag and brings it to me. Sure, they might be a little slobbery, but who cares?"

Ending.

The yearbook staff would like to thank Gayle Ebel and Sallyanne Murphey, as well as Matt, Ian, and the entire Zine crew for their assistance in putting this book together. It was truly a collaborative effort. You folks are fabulous!

Inquiries about Harmony School and/or the yearbook can be directed to Harmony School, P.O. Box 1787, Bloomington, Indiana, 47402 or contact our yearbook editor, Teal Larsen, at Teallynn@hotmail.com. We would be happy to share with other schools how we do things.

Also thanks to Teal, Shahana, Jordan, Ruth, Sarah, JQ, Carrie and Safia who stepped into difficult roles and more than met the challenge. We were a good team. Thanks to Julia who helped with the senior pages. Thanks to Susan Mann at Kinkos for her assistance in production. And special thanks to sculptor Nick McGill who helped design & formulate the hardware for the handle. And, as always, mucho thanks to Camellia who helps us keep it all together.

And remember, think about Mathew every so often -- we will be.
