Introduction: part 1

When the yearbook staff sits down and brainstorms themes for the current year's edition, we have certain things in mind. The theme should a) work with a wide variety of people from the very young to the not so young, b) have visual potential, and c) have a degree of depth. When we selected the travel issue we broadened the idea to traveling in a) time or b) space or c) both. We assumed it would be on the geographical side & failed to truly grasp the historical potential of the theme. So, when Paige Gerstman placed herself at the Lincoln assassination throwing herself in front of the assassin's bullet, we knew we were onto something. Ciabon, likewise, went to the moment when life went from the sea to the land (and is seen kicking the unfortunate creature back into the water.

Introduction: part 2

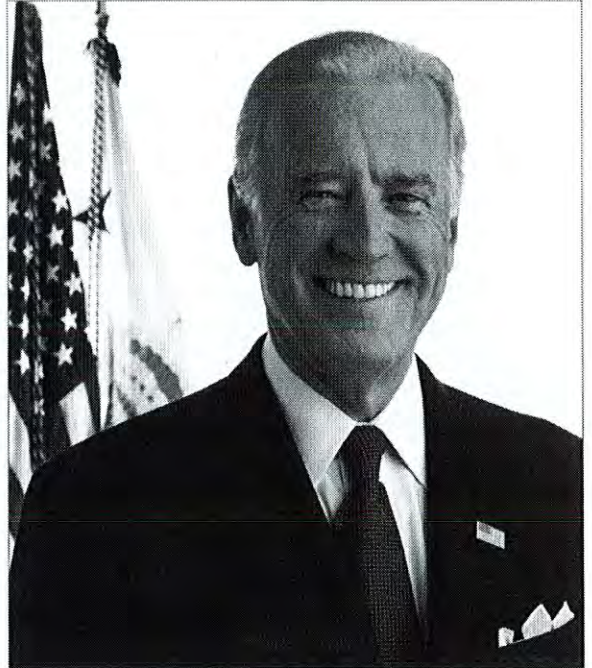

The thing about traveling is that it is universal and happening all the time. One travels through their life and change is the only true constant. Which brings us to some major changes--one for the school, and one for the yearbook. Libby Gwynn has been a key player in Harmony's history, becoming its assistant director and helping to guide it in a calm, thoughtful way. You will be missed by a community of students, teachers, and parents. Change for the yearbook is inevitable but having Annie Dill & Avery Street move on is momentous--Annie serving as overall editor for the past few years and Avery as our head photographer. The yearbook thanks you, as we thank Libby, as you all do exactly what you're supposed to do--travel on to new things.

August 1968, I'm in New York with my parents. We go to Greenwich Village to hear Gary Burton at the Village Gate. I remember there was a two drink minimum and cokes were $3.50 per drink. Between sets I stepped outside and was standing on the sidewalk when I saw a group of young men in suits walking down the street in my direction. In the middle of the group was Muhammad Ali. He had recently been stripped of his heavy weight championship title for refusing to register for the draft. We looked at each other--as he passed he waved his finger in my direction. My father said, "Well, that's New York!"

Nico's body clock keeps flashing 12:00.

Nico recently revealed that his body clock was flashing "12:00." "You hear about body clocks all the time," Nico said, "I assumed it was a metaphor or something, but when I saw those flashing lights coming from my stomach area, I was really surprised." Nico is now attempting to program his body clock correctly. He is making progress as to month and day but remains stuck in 1953.

ROCKY

Robotic Babies Used as Tornado Sirens

In a cost cutting effort, Harmony School decided to forego its plan of a sophisticated Doplar radar ststem to warn students of approaching tornadoes and replace it with programmable babies. "It's simply a matter of programming them to pick up low air pressure waves," said Middle Schooler SongBear Burke. "When the atmosphere dips below 29 thousand isobars, these babies go off like fire crackers. Trust me, you'll have students running to the basement," he added.

Ask the Expert

1. Q: There is a monster in my closet that continues to eat my shoes. How can I coexist with it in peace?

A: The monster must be, in some way, conflicted with certain actions or decisions you have made. You should talk it over with him and show him that you're respectful of him and that he should trust you, not frightened. Then you can negotiate the safe return of your shoes.

2. Q: I have an insane urge to drive into oncoming traffic, what should I do?

A: Well, you should probably GET HELP! I understand you may love to space-out and head into oncoming traffic, but it's not worth your life. Trust me, you'll have your whole life to space-out. So, just don't do it while driving.

3. Q: Tristan, I have softball practice today. What do you think about that?

A: To be quite honest with you, I couldn't care less... But, if it makes you happy, then keep up the effort.

4. Q: I threw a brick through a window of a small business and they blamed my brother. What should I do about the situation?

A: Well, you should come clean. If you are coming to me, then that means you're already feeling guilty. You don't want to live with that for the rest of your life. Don't let your innocent brother take the fall for something you did, it would be unjust. Come clean, tell your brother what you've done, and apologize. He'll understand, and hopefully, the business will too.

5. Q: Tristan, who do you think you are, God?

A: God? No. I am simply an advice columnist. I'm here for troubled people like yourself and all others who may need assistance. I still give honest heart to heart advice and speak what's on my mind. If that's being God, then man, how simple it would be.

6. Q: I have a watermelon shaped head due to my previous hairdo, and I'm constantly being made fun of. What should I do?

A: Well, if it tires you to be made fun of, then just change your look. Try something different and new, something not normally you. But, you must also keep in mind that you shouldn't have to change yourself. If you like it, then who cares what others say, do what you want.

7. Q: Tristan, I have a L-41 GB metal 88-horsepower V8 engine and an external part has seemed to have broken. How do I fix it? I'm absolutely horrible with cars.

A: It seems to me that your knowledge on cars way surpasses what your leading on. My guess would be that you are very humble about your abilities and you feel that you should let others also have their glory. So, let me tell you this, it's good to be humble, but don't always pretend you're stupid just to make others feel better. You already know the answer to this one, just think it over.

8. Q: Why are countries so uptight about their flags?

A: It is a symbol that signifies their home. Most feel it is their national icon, and they are connected to it through a sense of patriotism. If your home was in danger, wouldn't you try anything and everything to defend it?

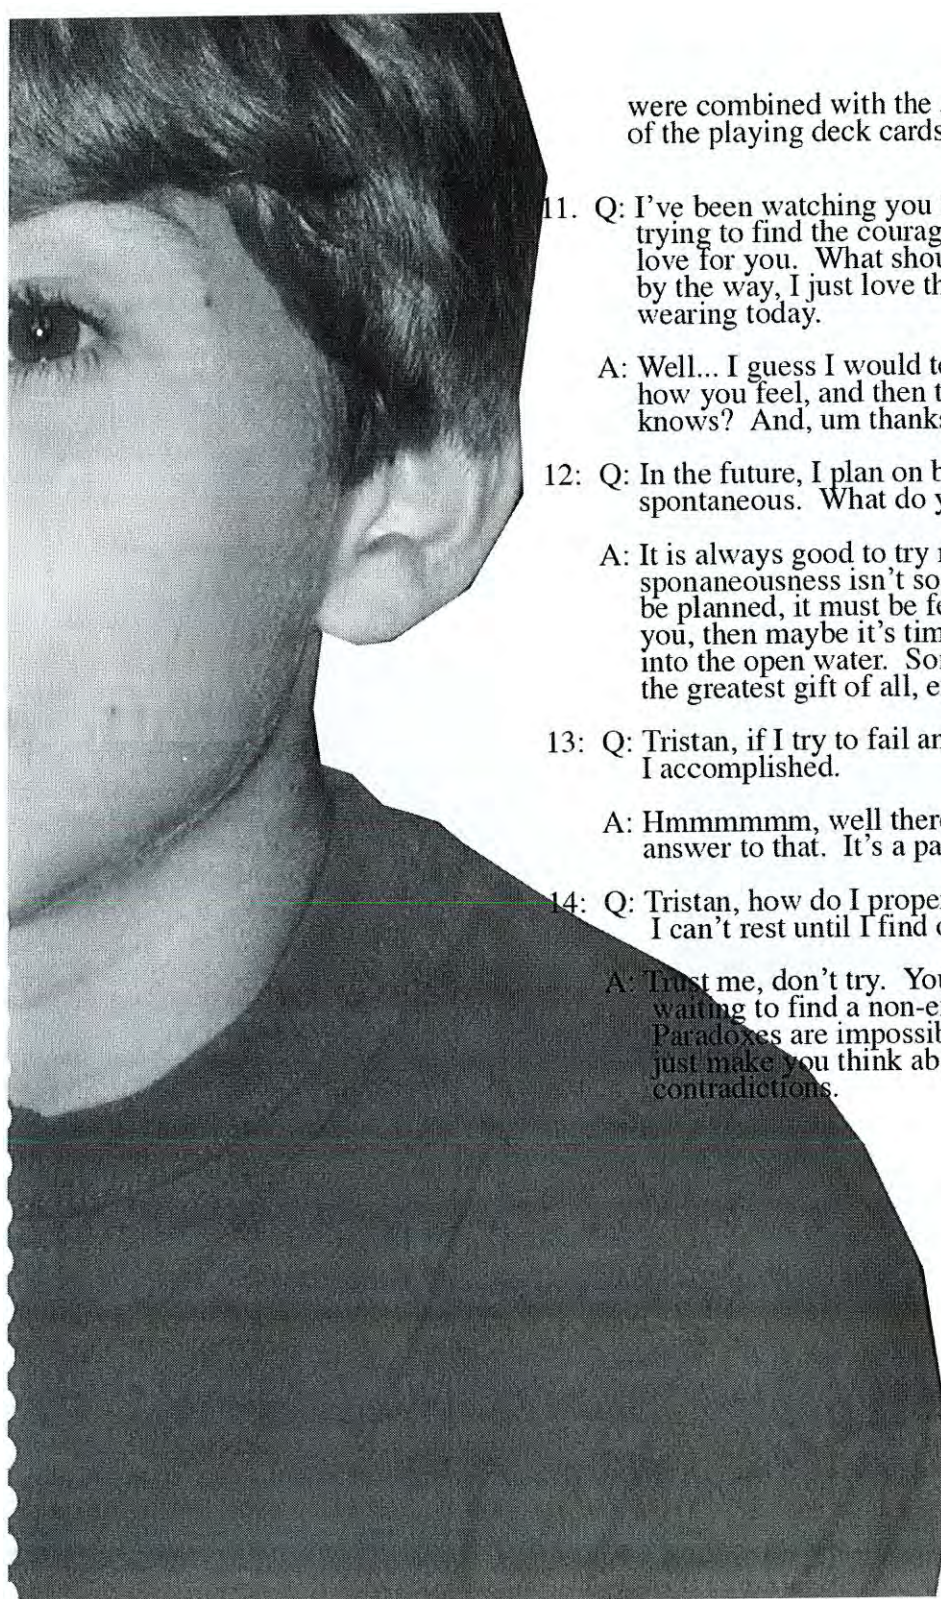

9. Q: How fast is human thought?

A: Human thought, I would guess, is just as fast as human compassion; fast when in need, and not seen when confronted by a challenge. There are very few that are an exception to this and that's why they are never forgotten. People need to listen to not only their brain, but also to their heart.

10. Q: Where did the men on 4 horses go?

A: This question refers to the knights that used to be in playing card decks. There were four knights riding on horses. Eventually, they were combined with the Jacks and taken out of the playing deck cards.

11. Q: I've been watching you for so long, and I'm trying to find the courage to tell you my love for you. What should I do? Oh, and by the way, I just love that blue shirt you're wearing today.

A: Well... I guess I would tell me exactly how you feel, and then take a chance. Who knows? And, um thanks.

12: Q: In the future, I plan on being more spontaneous. What do you think about that?

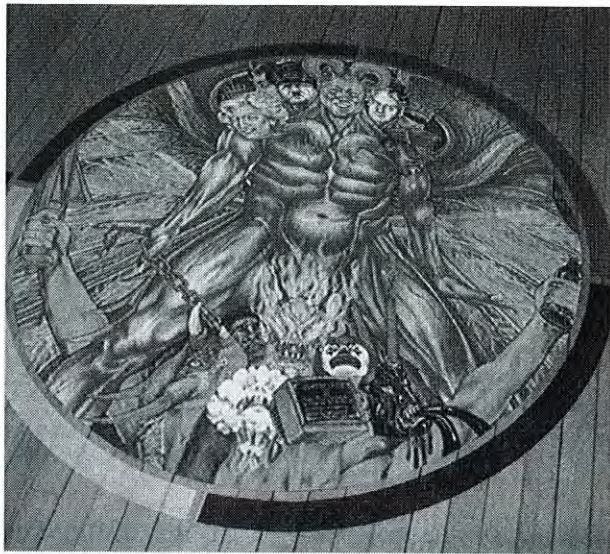

A: It is always good to try new things. But sponaneousness isn't something that can be planned, it must be felt. If change scares you, then maybe it's time to throw yourself into the open water. Sometimes change is the greatest gift of all, expected or not.

13: Q: Tristan, if I try to fail and succeed, what have I accomplished.

A: Hmmmmmm, well there is no one true answer to that. It's a paradox.

14: Q: Tristan, how do I properly solve a paradox? I can't rest until I find out.

A: Trust me, don't try. You'll spend your life waiting to find a non-existent answer. Paradoxes are impossible to solve, they just make you think about interesting contradictions.

New Gym Logo Mystifies Students

“I thought we voted for the rhino with a peace sign painted on his belly” said second grader Logan Burdeshaw. “It was nice--the rhino was purple and pretty.” Instead, the students encountered a disturbing demonic scene of hell and damnation. Not every student was put off by the design. Jacob Ramones-Hernandez thought the graphic juxtaposition of Bill Clinton, Adolph Hitler, Margaret Thatcher, and the Clown Possie iconography was brilliant and very appropriate for a school like Harmony.

Upstairs Convenience Store Opens

James Pfister, high school entrepreneur, has always always had a knack for making money. Last year he made a fortune making dog booties. This year he opened a convenience store in his locker. "I figured I could expand my product line beyond sticky buns and soft drinks--once I hallowed out the space behind my locker, I had plenty of room." Indeed, James now stocks a wide range of products. "I have just about anything you'd want," he added "and new shipments come in every week."

School Burns Down in Nate's Absence

In an odd twist of fate the Harmony School building suffered heavy damage recently while high schooler Nate Holland was doing his senior project on becoming a volunteer fireman. The irony of the disaster brought a tear to Nate's eyes, "If only I had been there, maybe I could have made a difference..."

Centaur Kids

One day Roc came to school as a Centaur. You may ask, "How did that happen?" Well, we don't really know, but we do know that a lot of other kids were bitten by a horse and turned into Centaurs!!! And then we all had to hide so we would not DIE!!! Anisa was the head of "PLFACSTWDNDBOTC" That stands for...People Looking For A Cure So That We Do Not Die Because Of The Centaurs. It was really hard to find a cure, that's why we don't remember how we got saved.

Jacquelyn & Naomi

Elias,

I am so thankful to have you as my son. You are a creative and sensitive person and truly entertaining. You keep me on my feet when you challenge and question my views.

You're forming your own opinions and have hidden talents that I see emerging and developing into a more grown-up version of my little boy. I am very proud of you and have complete faith and belief in you! Congratulations in graduating from elementary school! Dream big dreams and reach for your highest hopes! Your mother loves you and always will, no matter what!

Elias,

As I've watched you grow and mature and now approach your teenage and middle school years, I see a bright future for you.

Your smile, laughter, sense of humor, and healthy curiosity bring me joy every day. Your compassionate, creative, and determined spirit has a positive effect on those around you and will doubtlessly continue to win you admiration, respect and friendship.

You have come a long way, son, and along with our many adventures and good times, you have also endured obstacles and hardships, and have emerged from these a stronger, more confident person.

Eli Pumpkin Pie to Panda, E-Dog to E-Z Doo-Dah, Wee-Wias to Wozle, I have been behind you and beside you on your 12+-year journey and can say without any hesitation that I am mighty proud to be your dad. I love you, dude—always have and always will!

5th & 6th graders make good on 40 Day of Peace Pledge

"We refuse to take part in a shootout," said Amadeo Moore & Mayan Earheart, "this kind of verbal violence is unacceptable, even if it's only a soccer game." And so it was that the Middle School would eek out another win the soccer challenge.

Caribbean Exports Incorporated found to be mob front

High school students Jacob Ramones-Hernandez, Calvin Langfitt, and Ross McKinney were arrested after it was discovered that their business had close ties to organized crime. Caribbean Exports Inc, ostensibly an organization to raise money for the high school trip, was in actuality a money-laundering front for a Nicaraguan cartel. The students were unavailable for comment, as they were found dead in a bizarre stabbing-bludgeoning-shooting accident.

Harmony Game Night Raided by Police
Apparently a simple fund raiser got out of hand when Harmony High School students deviated from their original plan of offering a fun evening of video gaming to setting up a sophisticated gambling operation that included a roulette wheel, black jack table and 20 slot machines. "The teachers said to make money," Adam Berndt commented, "we figured this was the most effective way."

RUNCIBLE SPOON

The Midwest's Oldest Gourmet Roaster
412 E. 6th St. • Bloomington, IN 47408 • (812) 334-3997

Student-Teacher Ratio Increased

As a cost cutting gesture Harmony has increased student teacher ratios to 1 to 180. "We see it as a return to the one-room school house concept," said Harmony director, Steve Bonchek.

Jordan Shrinks Massive Hole in the Ozone Layer.... With her Mind!

After an awry science experiment in Emily's class, student Jordan Bradley developed mind powers. She then proceeded to help fix the school, but she became overly ambitious and took her powers to show her gloriousness to the rest of the world. He helped cure cancer, and even found Atlantis! Now, Harmony has become a science lab run by Jordan herself.
